

David Gallegos, MA, ATC, Cert. MDT

I am a 1997 graduate of New Mexico State University in Athletic Training Education and a 2003 graduate in Curriculum & Instruction. I am the Deputy CEO for Southwest Sport & Spine Center, Inc., an outpatient physical therapy business. I am involved in the secondary schools setting and christian ministry efforts. My passions include helping grow the profession in through business models, promoting the uniqueness of the profession and teaching. I am the current secretary for the RMATA Board of Directors.

I volunteer because it is my responsibility to give back to a profession and a group of mentors that have given much more than they will ever know. Volunteering promotes involvement and engagement and the ability to make a difference. Each role I have volunteered for has created a challenge to meet the needs as well as an exponential professional growth.

If members have questions regarding their membership status, communication preferences and direction on how to utilize NATA benefits I am their contact. My email is secretary@rmata.org.
